

Bathroom trends

Patterned tubs, twin showers, sculptural basins, avocado tones (yes)... 2025 is an exciting year for a bathing space update, as these inspiring ideas show

FEATURE Ellen Finch

CARVED VANITIES

Stone is here to stay in high-end bathroom design, but Australian interior design firm Fiona Lynch takes it a step further with this gorgeous monolithic carved vanity crafted from Aquarzo quartzite. The rest of the bathroom can be kept minimalist to allow the bold, sculptural craftsmanship to stand out - but we do appreciate the colour-drench effect that continuing the blue-green stone onto the walls and floor has, too. Custom vanity, Fiona Lynch

PHOTOGRAPH SHARYN CAIRNS

TWIN SHOWERS

Following on from twin basins, the double shower enclosure is the latest luxury feature popping up in bathroom design – it's indulgent, sure, but it's pretty practical, too. We love this look by New Jersey-based designer Allison Handler, with two perfectly mirrored showers set on a platform behind a glass screen. So elegant! Design, Allison Handler Design. Wall and floor tiles, Garden State Tile. Hardware, Topknobs. Tap, Brizo. Stool, Serena & Lily